Judge Robertson offered a resolution in the Know-Nothing State Council, declaring that The charge of factious agitation and hostility "to civil and reagious liberty" recklessly made aga not the American party by a Democratic course at the National Capitol, and echoed by a late Democratic Convention at our own State Capitol, comes with a bad grace from leaders of a sinking party, standing on an articulation platform, and encouraging foreign tyranny over the minds of American citizens; and that the charge, thus denounced in the form of party resolutions, is an unfounded calumny, etc.

It is hardly worth while to contradict such stuff as this where Gov. Wright is known. It is just about as silly a fabrication as could be gotten to a sinking party, standing on an articulation, and encouraging foreign tyrang over the minds of American citizens; and that the charge, thus denounced in the form of party resolutions, is an unfounded calumny, etc.

Whereupon a correspondent of the Lexington

We learn from good authority that the letter to Col. Lane in question, was written by John W. "No doubt," he says, "it had been better if we had been allowed "-yes, allowed-"to fight that battle out, with the usual directness of political contests, and without bloodshed." Aye, without bloodshed. Then, we suppose, that blood is to be shed. "At any rate," says the Observer and Reporter's correspondent, "we intend to fight it out politically, come what willrise who will-fall who will. We intend to do this to the bitler end." But if the fight is to be a political one only, why this ado about shedding blood? Nothing is to be gained by any political party in this country by resorting to force and bloodshed to carry their point, nor by advocating and talking The joint resolution in the Pennsylvania about it. Freedom of speech and of the press is Legislature instructing their Representatives to not yet to be crushed out in this free land, and all vote for the repeal of the Kansas-Nebraska bill parties had as well, as they have done heretofore, was negatived. A party strong in the conviction of right, conscious of the soundness of its principles and the rectitude of its purposes, and confiding in the virtue and intelligence of the people, is not apt to fear full and free discussion, even though it should occasionally degenerate into bitterness, and be attended with the use of unpleasant language and epithets, and dreads not the final verdict of an enlightened people.

That Assault,

Which the large, powerful, and athletic Treasurer made upon me yesterday. I was passing in the State-House, and when opposite the ofice of the President of the Board of Internal Improvement, was called by Mr. Wintersmith. He extended his hand, passed the abutations of the morning, and asked me to step in the room. I compiled, and he closed the door. He then exhibted the obnoxious article in the Courier, and asked me if I was the author. I replet affirmatively, and he rejoined, with an oath, that it was false. I remarked in answer that I understood it to betwee, where upon he segan the assault. This pieasant little scrimmage lasted about half a minute, when Dr. Haggard, President of the Board of Internal Improvement, interfered, and the hostile parties were separated. Wintersmith tase pulled a paper from his pocket and peremptority ordered me to sign it. This paper was a price accanowiedgment of having written what was false concerning the said Wintersmith. As an atternative, pistols and other ireful consequences were threatened, with an intimation that I should be immolated on the spot. Now, these suggestions were not very pleasant, and especially since Wintersmith had brought a friend, and spepared for the encounter. I declined signing any paper, or making any retraction, and then ensure a nother gust of bravado and threats. Very soon Senators Harris, Haggin, and Ripley, with Mr. W. K. Thomas, having of a great many statements and corrections, all of which I refused to sign, Mr. Wintersmith and his friend withdrew, leaving myself and freenot the crom. And thus ended the hostilities. The only monument or token of this brief engagement that I have, is a slight scratch, a quarter of an inch long, under the left eye. I have not heard whether the Treasure has even so much of an honorable scar as that.

Indiana to Kansas, Greeting.

LAWRENCE, K. T., January 5, 1856.

Col. Lane received a note from Gov. Wright, of Indiana, by the last mail from Westport, which, from the influence it has exerted, deserves to be recorded in the annals of our State. It is dated Indianapolis, feeember 4. He says that news had just been received of Lane's resistance to the border ruffians. He has money and sors, and is ready to come hunself, and spend every cent he has get, in defence of the Northern Free State emigracts. He has five hunded men who are ready to march at once for Kaussas. "Write immediately, and telegraph if possible. The boys here are greatly excited, but have confidence in Jim Lane." Peace in Europe.

It is not, perhaps, certain, but extremely probable, that the present conflict in Europe is over. Indeed, both parties are tired of a fruitless contest. The enormous sacrifice of treasure on the part of the Allies is not compensated by any advantage they have gained. Another campaign would be still harder to support. Russia has accepted the terms as a basis of negotiation. She has nothing to gain by war, and will not lose anything worth are not as first reported; and, in fact, little less fa vorable to her than she would have accepted a first. [From the Cincinnati Gazette, Feb. 1st.] The Fugitive Slave Case.

On the opening of the Court at 91/2 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. Jolliffe stated that he had been informed that warrants had been issued against those of the fugitive who were adults, on a criminal charge, and that an arrangement had been made between the U.S. and the State offi-ers, by which they were not to be served until this investigation had terminated. He would herefore move if any officer had such warrants, e should be permitted to serve them at once. Col. Chambers said, he was not surprised at this motion, or to see the gentleman, the champion of the sovereignty of the State of Ohio, and using all his endeavors to bring their people under her laws, but the sovereignty of the Union he had entirely Mr. Jolliffe-"No, sir, not me." Col. Chambers said he knew not what might be the sentiment of the multitude, whether they loved the Union better than anything else, but he must say the motion of the gentleman quite sur-prised him. Commissioner Pendery said that since the opening of the Court this morning, he had been called upon by the City Marshal with two warrants, ing four or more of the fugitives, and that he had told him that in order to prevent a collision between the authorities he would not grant them until the investigation was through. Between the the termination of the investigation and the time he would take for giving his decision the warrants ould be served.

Mr. Jolliffo still pressed his motion. It might he should demand that they be given up on a charge of murder, but each and all of them had assured him that they would go singing to the gallows rather than be returned to slavery.

Jacob Flinn, who appeared for the Marshal, said he would look into the matter so as to give the

If served by blunteers the Court would have no such power. He would, therefore, ask that Win, Beckley be ap nted. (William Beckley is a light colored mu-

Mr. Jolliffe stated that Beckley was a citizen of Ohio, and a voter.

Commissioner Pendery said, after talking aside the Marshal, that to prevent trouble the Mar-hal would serve these subpænas, and he (the Commissioner) would pay the fees out of his own tary Public, viz: Jolliffe-"Oh no, you shan't do that."

The Marshal then took the subpenas to serve.

Mr. Jolliffe then desired the warrant to be amended as to the fugitive named in it as young simon. His name was not Simon, but Robert Mr. Jolliffe then moved that this prosecution be guashed, on the ground that the warrant had no seal upon it. It had in its place simply a scroll, made with a pen, and the word seal written there. That such would be sufficient on a deed or bond, in the State of Ohio, he did not deny, but on pros issued from a United States Court it was sufficient. This was not the Commissioner's fault.

The Congress that passed the Fugitive Slave Law had failed to provide a seal for the Commissioner, and if there was a hiatus in the proceeding, it was, thank God, so much the better for the cause of human freedom. In processes between different Setes, the seal was the only evidence to authenicate them.

Commissioner Pendery said he thought when he Commissioner Pendery said he thought when he indertook the business of issuing the warrant he surance companies, ordered to be printed, and surance what he was about. When he undertook he office he had consulted with a Justice of the Surreme Court, about his duties, and was told that Supreme Court, about his duties, and was told that Supreme Court, about his duties, and was told that a seal was not necessary. He did wish to delay this trial, but the question might be argued at any time. Besides, the warrant, whether defecte or not, did not now hold the prisoner. They ere now in the custody of this Court.

Mr. Jolliffe, replied that the fact he intended to ring out, was that the mother of these children, frantic, at the time of the arrest, had murdered trantic, at the time of the arrest, had intracted one of her children (a little girl), rather than have it taken back into slavery. He did not regard this as a "fancy matter" as Ool. Chambers termed it. The Court rejected the question, when Mr. Jolliffe put it in another form.

Col. Chambers thought this was triding with the dignity of the Court. Commissioner Pendery said the Court, understood how to maintain its own dignity, and would ask Mr. Jolliffe what object he had in proving the fact of the death of the child MR. JOLLIFFE'S REMARKS.

Mr. Jolliffe replied that he intended on the final argument of this case, not only to allege, but to temonstrate conclusively to the court; that the Fugitive Slave Law was unconstituti part and parcel of that argument, he wished to show the effect of carrying it out. DR. BLACKWELL'S SARSAPARRILLA AND VERSICOLA,

For the cure of Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Chronic Rhennatism, and Blood Impurities generally. MIDDLETOWN, JEFFERSON Co., Ky., Aug. 13, 1855. Dr. VAUGHAN-Dear Sir: In the summer of 1852 I had a young black boy, about two years old, severely afflicted with an eruptive disease of some kind. His whole body, and more especially his head, arms, and legs, were one mass of running matter. I had lost two children about the same age, and of the same parents with the same kind of cruptions, and I felt sure this one would also die; but, luckily, I was recommended to use your "Dr. Blackwell's Sarsaparilla and Vessicola," which I am happy to inform you, from the use of some five or six bottles, entirely cured him.

Respectfully yours, ALLEN MINOR.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 31, 1555. Dr. Vaughan-Dear Sir: I have used "Dr. Black well's Sarsaparilla and Versicola" for a chronic disease of the stomach and liver, with severe constipation of the bowels and tendency of the blood to the head. I take great pleasure in recommending it as a superior alterative and blood purifier. It acts as a gentle cathartic, and is pleasant to the taste

There are thousands in this community who can testify to their virtues, and thousands will hereafter add their testimony. See advertisement.

Necessaries of Life.

Piour, Whisky, and Tobacco have long been regarded the necessaries of life—but it is a mistake. We can 't buy Flour—that is, Daguerreoty pirts can 't—for it is too dear; the temper. necemen wont let us drink Whisky, and the Tobacco crop is a failure. What we can't get it is plain we must do without, and what we can do without is not a necessary. The provert, then, is a falsehood. But one of HARRIS'S Daguri cotypes—bright sparkling, rich, beld, and clear—which we can get and cannot do without—that is a necessary of life. no23

The funds rose 3 per cent., cotton a farthing, and a panic ensued in the other markets. The next day the English Government published a dispatch from Minister Seymour at St. Petersburg as follows: Russia agrees to accept the proposal as a basis of negotiation.
This qualified announcement curbed the excitement and the alarmists began to fear that Russia merely wants to gain time by deserving negotiaing tendency.

To prevent this, Count Nesselrode communicated with Vienna direct, and Prince Gortschakoff, at Vienna, had a talk with Count Bucl, in which the former produced a memorandum, expressing the general inclination of Russia to negotiate, but proposing certain alterations.

Count Bucl received the document, but, inas-Money active at unchanged prices. Consols have adranced 3%, closed at 35% 50% for money and account, and closing steady. All European stocks participated at the advance. Bell & Son report American stocks

Count Buol received the document, but, inasmuch as it did not contain an unconditional acceptance of the propositions, Austria could not reply without the concurrence of Franco and England. The Ambassadors of these powers accordingly sent to London and Paris and received in reply that the Western powers had no motive to change their decision, already carefully considered; and further, that, if Russia did not accept by the 18th, Count Esterhazy and the Austria legation would leave St. Petersburg, and Austria seek to obtain the armed co-operation of the German Piet.
